PERSONAL ESSAY

I have always considered one of my greatest sources of strength to be continual intellectual challenge posed by a talented instructor. Thus far in my academic career, I have been fortunate enough to study under some very wise teachers – teachers who understood that I am not one to shrink from any challenge; I am more willing than most students my age to take on additional work to better myself.

My public elementary school education was supplemented by steady exposure to the Arts and Science under the tutelage of my parents, both research scientists for the United States Government.

As a High School Freshman, I placed out of the Freshman AP Calculus and Biology programs, effectively skipping two academic years worth of instruction. Now as a senior, I am enrolled in a cooperative program between Whasamatta High School and Somother Community College that allows me to satisfy my High School Diploma with first year college courses. I am, at this time, a straight A student ranked number one in my class of 300 students.

In addition to my academic standing, I have also enjoyed moderate success in my extracurricular activities at Whasamatta High School. This fall I placed third in the conference Cross Country championship. I am also a member of the Track team, frequently placing in the top three in the 400 meter, and 800-meter events. I hope to continue my competitive running at SCT State University.

I intend to pursue Biology and Computer Science as a double major at SCT State University. My ultimate goal is to put this education to work in the field of BioInformatics. This emerging field of study has broad implications in areas of genomic study that are, at present, unrealized. I

BXS 6.3 & 7.0.1: SCT Luminis Integration*

- *So what are these “additional components”?
- SCT Luminis Integration for BXS requires “AX Web Services”
- AX Web Services (ApplicationXtender Web Services) provides:
 - Server-based programmatic access to BXS documents
 - An easy-to-use business logic layer for fixed content operations
 - Method invocations via either remote calls or local library calls
 - The ability to serve applications running on different environments
 - Code examples in Java, C++, and C#
 - Testing utilities, remote management, and logging

BXS 6.3 & 7.0.1: Records Management

- New optional module for SCT Banner XtenderSolutions
- Retentioning and disposition of BXS documents
 - Records series, hierarchy, and policy definition
 - Archive or expunge based on institutional rules
 - Permanent digital object and metadata deletion
 - Management of electronic records
 - Management of physical paper, film, and fiche records

What is Records Management?

Records Management Requirements

Acquisition

- ✓ capture and preserve the original content, context and structure of the information – physical or electronic

Authenticity

- ✓ providing records that are verifiably accurate, trustworthy and reliable

Integrity

- ✓ records are protected against alteration or deletion while retained

Retention

- ✓ achieving full compliance with retention requirements including “hold orders”

Accessibility

- ✓ delivery of all related information quickly, regardless of format

Recovery

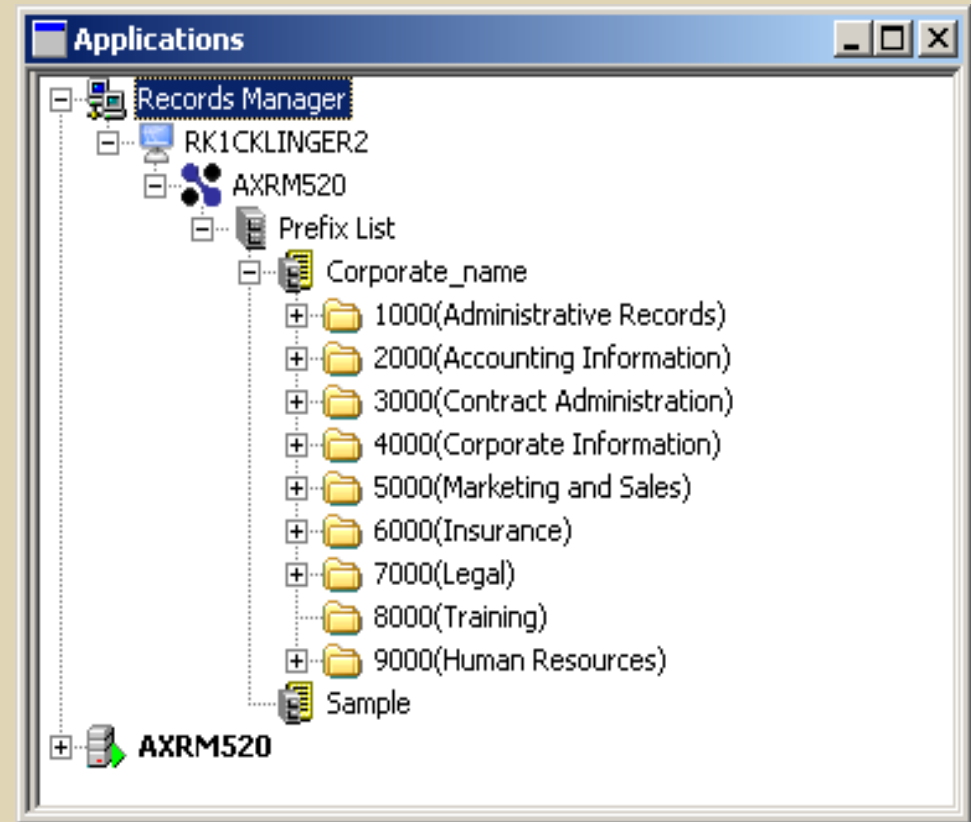

records are automatically duplicated, retained at a remote site (eg... via DiskXtender)

Audit

- ✓ the “chain of custody” can be tracked and evidence produced to prove the negative

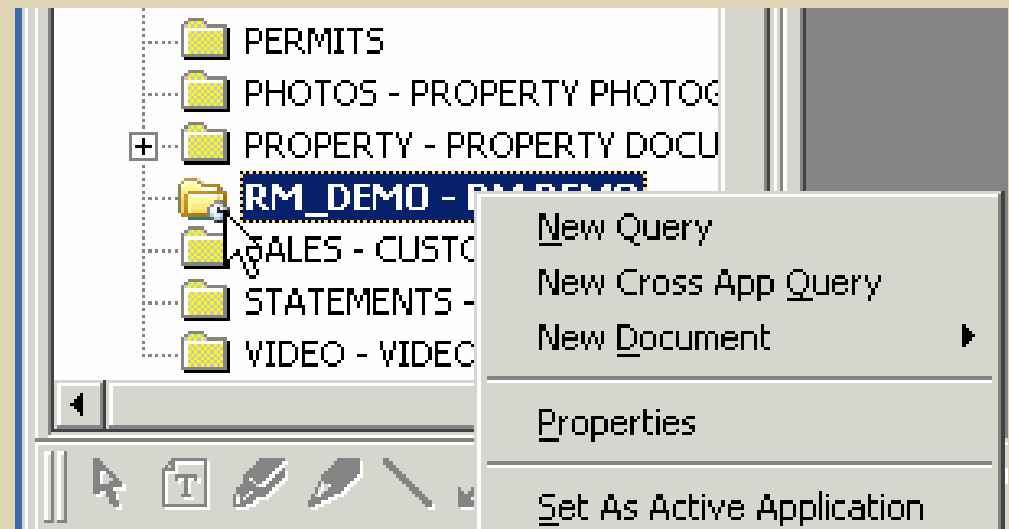

File Plans in Records Manager

- Filing structure of RM repository
- Contains rules for records classified to RM
 - Retention policies
 - Audit trails
- Based on organization's specific requirements
- Multiple files plans
 - AX documents classified to file plan
 - AX can use multiple file plans
 - Automatic or manual classification

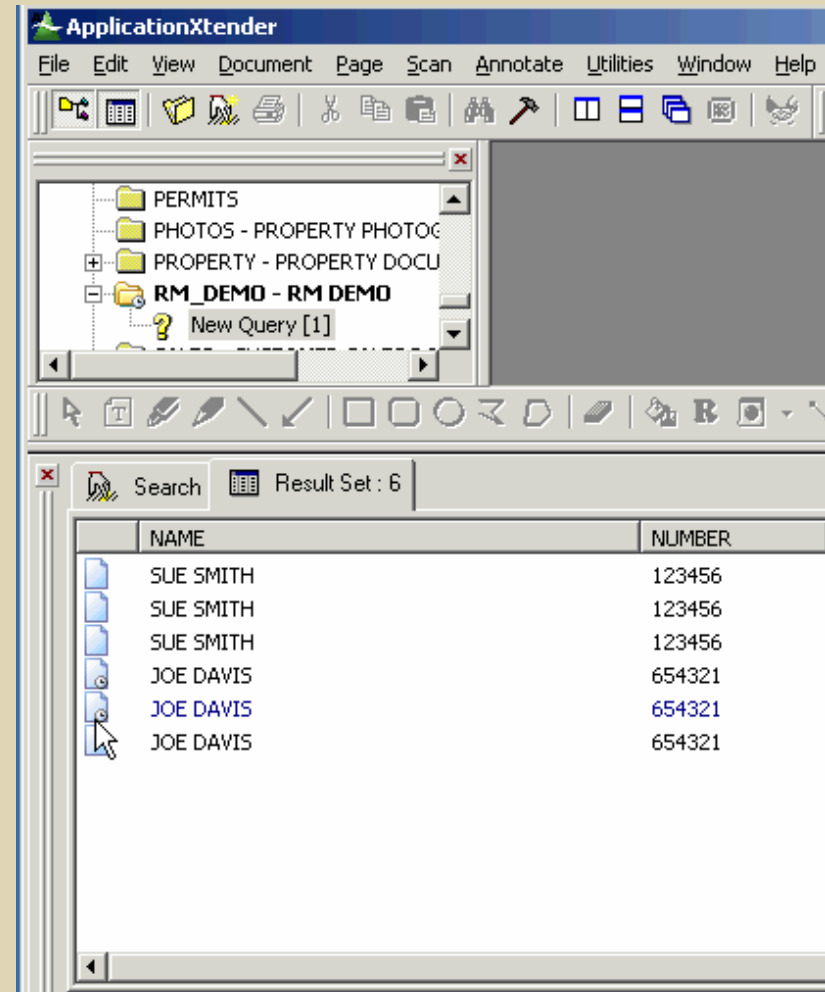

AX Application with Retention

- Click on AX application view indicates an application with retention policies
- Blue folder on AX application view indicates an application with records management policies

AX Documents with Retention

- Clock in AX Result Set indicates a document that has been classified to RM for retention
