SOUTH TEXAS COLLEGE

STRATEGIC PLAN
for 2013-2018

CHANGING LIVES, CHANGING COMMUNITIES
SOUTH TEXAS COLLEGE (STC) is celebrating its 20th anniversary in 2013. Its humble and hopeful beginning in the fall of 1993 with just over 1,000 students on a small campus in McAllen has grown to almost 31,000 students across five campuses and the eSTC virtual campus.

The last 20 years have been a time of unprecedented growth and change in Hidalgo and Starr counties with never imagined social and economic benefit to the region.

STC has served as the catalyst for regional economic development and social mobility. The College has been recognized as a world-class institution of higher education and has earned numerous recognitions for the success of its students, quality of its programs and its many special initiatives to improve the economic and social mobility of its citizens. It is no small task to achieve such growth with nationally merited scholarship and excellence. It takes bold planning, creative ideas, committed partnerships, a supportive Board of Trustees, and an unwavering commitment to change the lives of communities and to transform the quality of life in our communities. The commitment to the success of the students selecting South Texas College is an institutional priority and we all share in that commitment.

The future planning for STC continues to build on the already established foundation of serving as a dynamic world class higher education institution in a rapidly growing and developing region of deep South Texas. This five year Strategic Plan, taking us from 2013 through 2018, serves as the culmination of detailed systematic planning and includes the broad participation of faculty, staff, and students from across all five campuses. It is a commitment of South Texas College to the people of Hidalgo and Starr counties to continue improving the quality of life for our graduates, their families, and future generations. STC has made the opportunity to attend college a possibility for every child and every family. Exciting opportunities are still to come from South Texas College.

An important component of the Strategic Plan is the commitment of South Texas College to continue working collaboratively with 21 school districts across the service area to make the pathway to college completion affordable and possible for all, with high expectations for student success.

I extend deep appreciation for your commitment to the growth, development, and excellence of South Texas College.

With warm regards,

Shirley A. Reed, M.B.A., Ed.D.

ABOUT SOUTH TEXAS COLLEGE

SOUTH TEXAS COLLEGE (STC) was created on September 1, 1993, by Texas Senate Bill 251 and House Bill 1102 to serve Hidalgo and Starr counties, which are located in deep south Texas along the U.S.-Mexico border region. STC is the only community college in Texas to be legislatively established because of the compelling need for a comprehensive community college to serve the almost 700,000 residents of the region. With a 95 percent Hispanic student enrollment, these residents previously did not have access to such an institution. In the fall of 1993, STC opened its doors to just over 1,000 students on the site of what had previously been the McAllen extension center for Texas State Technical College.

Today, STC is a nationally recognized and award-winning comprehensive college serving almost 31,000 students with 2,524 faculty and staff across five full-service campuses, one virtual campus for online students and programs, and numerous dual enrollment partnering high schools. The five campuses are located as follows:

• The Pecan Campus – McAllen
• The Ramiro R. Casso Nursing and Allied Health Campus – McAllen
• The Technology Campus – McAllen
• The Mid-Valley Campus – Weslaco
• The Starr County Campus – Rio Grande City

STC’s student population is predominantly Hispanic and first-generation students. Over 75 percent of the entire student population is the first in their family to attend college and as many students are participating in need-based financial aid. The students of STC are “heroic” and rise to the challenge of high expectations established for them by STC. Their success can be seen in STC’s increasing number of graduates and university transfers.

STC’s National recognitions include: Community College Week’s Top 100 Associate Degree & Certificate Producers, 2012 continues to rank STC in the top 100 out of more than 1,100 community colleges; Hispanic Outlook’s Top 100 list ranked STC third for enrolling the most Hispanics among the nation’s colleges and universities.

STC is situated in the southernmost part of Texas, just 60 miles west of South Padre Island and the Gulf of Mexico. The college is committed to providing affordable access to a quality higher education and improving the economic vitality, social mobility and overall quality of life for the people of South Texas.

In 2013, South Texas College received the Leah Meyer Austin Award for demonstrating systemic institutional changes that have resulted in noteworthy increases in student success. The success of STC is truly attributed to a visionary board of trustees, a committed faculty and staff, and the stellar students who make up the fabric of the institution.

South Texas College seeks innovative redesign of college processes to promote new approaches to cost-consciousness and cost-efficiency.
South Texas College prides itself on its comprehensive strategic planning process that is:
• issue-based for an inclusive, cross-functional system of goal setting and priority setting,
• broad-based involving all sectors of the college community,
• data-driven with heavy investments in the gathering and analysis of quantitative and qualitative data,
• systematically evaluated at every level of the organization,
• integrated with sound budgeting, and
• periodically updated with each new planning cycle.

ISSUE-BASED

STC is committed to the elimination of operational silos. Efforts to eliminate poor communication and weak collaboration between and among distinct operations at the college have been identified. STC pursues planning, budgeting and assessment by identifying and then addressing issues that affect the institution and its mission foremost, assigning cross-functional action teams or special task forces and committees to produce recommendations for improvement and action. Only then do individual departments and divisions proceed with implementation of the varied components of the plan and with measuring their success at effective implementation and goal achievement.

BROAD-BASED

STC involves faculty and staff throughout the strategic planning process. Planning at STC begins with the convocation of faculty and staff from all levels and sections of the college during which issues, achievements, challenges and future opportunities are identified for determining the broader landscape of the institution and its ever-moving mission.

Faculty and staff dialogue is augmented with focus groups, students, and members of the Board of Trustees in an effort to triangulate current institutional strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats (a collective, broad-based SWOT analysis).

Throughout the planning process, faculty and staff participate in validation sessions that sometimes take the form of focus groups and cross-functional action teams.
DATA-DRIVEN

STC invests heavily in the collection, analysis, and presentation of statistical data and qualitative studies for purposes of ensuring that decisions are based on verifiable and reliable data. The college relies on several departments to systematically report out continuously on the results of institutional efforts to improve student success:

• Research and Analytical Services
• Institutional Effectiveness and Assessment
• Technology Resources – Data and Reporting Team
• Enrollment Management Office
• Office of Accountability, Grants and Management Services

Separately and cooperatively, these departments provide sound, reliable evidence of institutional excellence, identify potential areas of concern, and routinely respond to special inquiries into institutional performance and achievements.
SYSTEMATIC EVALUATION
South Texas College’s institutional effectiveness cycle is biennial in order to align it with the Texas State Legislature’s budgeting cycle for Texas. Every two years, within the college’s strategic planning cycle, institutional effectiveness plans are written to identify the specific intended outcomes and measures for those actions identified in the strategic planning process. During the fifth year of the five-year strategic plan, a third year is added to the second IE cycle to allow for a new strategic plan to be formulated.

The results of such a biennial cycle of planning and evaluation allow the institution to remain cognizant of fiscal constraints without compromising the pursuit of quality in higher education.

BUDGET INTEGRATION
The biennial STC institutional effectiveness cycles are integrated with annual budgeting based on the specific outcomes outlined by a department or program’s IE plan. A complete IE-Budget calendar details the thorough integration of planning and budgeting, culminating in an annual budget that is strongly aligned with the college’s comprehensive mission.

PERIODIC UPDATES
The South Texas College Strategic Plan is a five-year plan. During the first two years of the plan, the first institutional effectiveness cycle is underway. The next two years see another IE cycle to completion. During the fifth and final year, the second IE cycle is extended for a third year while careful, broad-based strategic planning takes place once again with the input of faculty, staff, trustees and the student body. The entire fifth year results in the formulation of a new five-year plan, the kick-off of the next IE cycle, and a sound annual budget fully integrated into the planning process.

In all, Strategic Planning at South Texas College has been proven successful by the college’s own successes during the past 15 years and in the leadership’s commitment to continually improve upon its planning processes with each strategic planning five-year cycle.
South Texas College has a two decade history of national recognition and rankings. It is embedded in the institutional culture to exceed all expectations in our commitment to serve the needs of all residents of deep South Texas.
